The Czech University of Life Sciences Prague (CULS) is the third largest university in Prague and has a history of more than 100 years. Thanks to its extensive international contacts, CULS has become one of the most respected life sciences universities in Europe. CULS scientists are involved in dozens of international development projects, in cooperation with Czech Governmental and EU Development Agencies, as well as professionals from various sectors of industry throughout the world. Basic and applied research implemented at CULS focuses on agriculture, forestry, ecology, alternative energy resources, waste management, sustainability, as well as economics and management. CULS has fully equipped laboratories and additional facilities, such as a large trial farm and forestry establishment in the vicinity of Prague. CULS provides complete university studies, summer schools, special courses and a university of the third age. CULS offers nearly 50 study programmes taught entirely in English.
