Welcome to our new English master's courses in Landscape Architecture at SLU, Uppsala Sweden

The Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences, SLU, in Uppsala, have been running a Landscape Architect Programme since the 70's. Now we offer more courses on master's level.

During the academic year 2015-2016 we start the below listed courses. Courses that we have run for several years, that are now developed and translated to English.

We pride ourselves on high quality courses where students have close teacher and researcher contacts together with landscape architects from the trade. The different projects in the courses are often taken from our nearby surroundings, Uppsala or Stockholm.

The SLU campus is situated nearby the city center of Uppsala, the oldest University town in Sweden with a vibrant student environment.

This autumn, the Division of Landscape Architecture moves into a brand new building at our campus. A natural step in the development of our teaching and research environment.

See You in September 2015!
